Receives VHF, UHF, Digital and Analog

The "Stubby" can receive VHF and UHF TV signals at the same time. This is achieved by positioning one arm vertical and the other arm horizontal. For solely UHF reception, both arms are placed in the vertical position. For solely VHF reception, both arms are placed in the horizontal position. To help improve reception try moving the arms in any direction between vertical and horizontal.

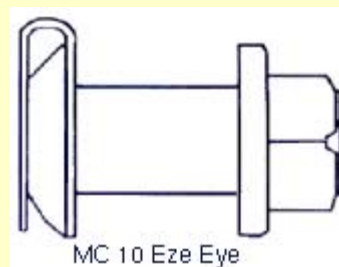

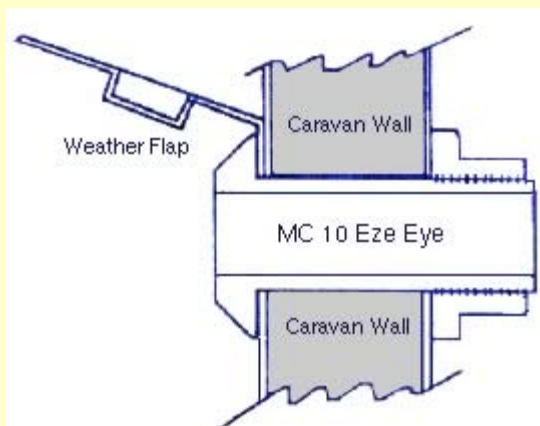

Approximate weight of the "Stubby" antenna is 1kg and length is 300mm.

"Eze Eye" through caravan wall fitting

Caravan wall connections are notorious for loose or corroded terminals, which result in loss of signal and poor quality. Most wall connections have at least 3 contact points and even when properly maintained, still result in loss of signal. The Mini Compact "Eze Eye" eliminates these problems.

The "Eze Eye" is designed so the coax cable can run directly from the antenna, through the "Eze Eye" and to the television without any other connections required.

The "Eze Eye" fits the standard caravan wall (28-35mm). A longer unit is available if required.

The "Eze Eye" is white and is simple to install.
